Notwithstanding the superiority of the French in the arts and sciences, and length of time which has elapsed since the introduction of the manufacture of silk into France, (in the reign of Francis I,) the fact, of the great superiority of the Chinese culture is frankly admitted by M. Camille Beauvais, the gentleman at whose instance the French Minister directed this Translation to be made from the Chinese works. Such is the strength of his testimony on one point, that he asserts, the Chinese lose in the rearing scarcely one per...
